The class initiation which was held on Monday night in Northeast Temple, Twelfth and H streets northeast, was the most successful of the three that have been held, there being a much larger attendance of the members of the several tents, a larger number of candidates, and the best of management.

In addition to the impressive ceremony those present were treated to some very impressive and instructive talks from Mr. Charles J. Gates, of Mount Vernon Tent; Mr. Samuel V. Gusterson, of National Tent; Mr. O. W. Hammond, of Golden Rule Tent, and State Deputy Commander D. W. Gall, who also instructed the class in the secret work of the order and some timely advice to the members. At the close of the work of the evening, a most excellent buffet lunch was served in an adjoining room.

The work of the degree team was so impressive that a motion was made and unanimously carried, requesting the deputy supreme commander to ask the Supreme Tent to give a handsome banner as a cash prize to the best qualified degree team in the city, to be judged by work done at a time to be fixed by a committee appointed by the tents for the purpose, and this if put in effect, is going to be another means of creating interest, which has been so materially improved in the last six months.

The meeting last Monday night, which was held in the hall of the National Tent in the city, was the best that has been held in the city for eight years, and it is carrying its good effects into the tents.

District Tent, No. 8, has added more new members of late than any other tent in the city.
